

I know, I am a day late getting this posted. We got home late, and got started early the next day. I went with Lee to a lunch / social gathering of the San Diego Chapter of HCCA. I met a number of their members and shared about my trip. Tony was there and brought my rebuilt wheel, ready to install. The installation has to wait a day, however, as I had to get back to the family.

The afternoon was spent lounging in the spa end of the pool sipping wine. Then we had a nice dinner and birthday cake. It was a good day.

Happy Birthday Mom
