

There was really no Model T activity today other than giving a ride to my niece Ann and her daughter Rina. It was just a day with family doing some errands and some shopping and then spending some time in the pool and spa at my sister's place.